

First Dutch Church Installs New Pastor

The Rev. Lucas Boeve Given Charge of Kingston's Oldest Congregation With Impressively Simple Ceremony.

Installation of the Rev. Lucas Boeve as pastor of the First Reformed Dutch Church took place at that church Monday evening and was in accordance with the simple but impressive form prescribed by the Reformed Church in America. In spite of rain, there was a large attendance of the congregation and many visitors of other denominations.

The Rev. Homer L. Sheffer presided and after reading of the Scripture lesson from 1 Corinthians, first chapter, from the eighteenth verse, he offered prayer.

The Spoken Word Lives.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. John Knox Allen, D. D., pastor emeritus of the First Reformed Church of Tarrytown, N. Y., whose theme was "The Foolishness of Preaching." His text was from 1 Corinthians 1:21, "It was God's good pleasure through the foolishness of the preaching to save them that believe."

Dr. Allen in part said:

"It is sometimes pointed out to us that St. Paul does not say that it was God's good pleasure to save men through foolish preaching. We have to admit that there has been and is much foolish preaching. Sometimes the men who do it are to be blamed, and sometimes they can't help it. Every preacher must say foolish things at times, things which afterwards return to his thoughts to torment him. But his preaching is foolish on such occasions not because he is a preacher but because he is a man, he is just like those in the seats before him, and if they are not exempt from saying foolish things, why should he be? And if there is foolish preaching, it is not the fault of the messenger, the finest passage that ever was uttered in the hearing of men may be spoken with a cracked voice, the best food in the world may be spoiled in the cooking.

"When St. Paul told the cultivated Greeks at Corinth that he intended to put out of his mind everything except a crucified Christ, they smiled scornfully. They tapped their heads significantly. It was laughably absurd—a crucified divinity! God giving himself for men. Nevertheless, said Paul, that's what I'm going to do; I will put truth to the fore; nobody can make any mistake about what I say. And as a matter of fact, he won out following that line. It was truth that depended on to win his victory and for the best accomplishments of the world, the most real things are gained in the world of thought, in the realm of ideas.

"The Great War is ended, but not the clash of ideas. In fact, that clash is keeping the world stirred up and may lead to another conflict. The armies of type are marching across the page and winning their victories. The crusades of thought are forever carried on, and while they are noiseless and out of sight, they are real and most permanent and far-reaching in their results.

"Men are preaching in so many different ways. Someone has said, 'Never was this old world sown so thick with pulpits. Never was heard in it such superabundance of gospels. Who that has ever read a modern newspaper will affirm again that the dogmatist is dead.' If you define preaching as the utterance of truth, or what you think to be truth, for the recreation of sentiment and action, aren't the preachers innumerable? They don't need to wear a white tie, and a Geneva gown, and stand in the pulpit, to be such. You stumble over the preachers all the time.

"The dramatist is one kind of preacher. His sermon is enacted, but he lacks that way of putting over his message to the world. And the painter is another. Through many generations he speaks through his canvas, he leaves the thoughts of men. There is a man making a soap-box his pulpit and haranguing others in the public square and showing them there is just one thing to do to be saved from the social, economic and political evils that are on the point of engulfing the world. And here's a pastor leveling sermons at us six days in the week—and some of them are pretty good ones, too. And here is the overlist disguising his sermon in the form of a story.

"So we sit in our various pews and listen to the various kinds of shorters, evangelists and preachers, but however some of their doctrines are really so, one and all are given testimony to this, that it is by preaching those that believe, those who put confidence in what they hear, are to be saved. No, Paul was not out of tune, so out of harmony with all humanity when he opposed to come to Corinth and harping on one great truth, he means of salvation to those who would believe what he said.

"The word indicates what is the work of the preacher is. He is a ments delivered in pulpits, fine dissertations, lovely essays, and these all may be in place at times in throwing light upon some phase of the truth, but primarily the work of the preacher is to do that which Jonah was told to do when he was sent into the city of Nineveh.

"Now, more particularly, what is this announcement a man is to make, the thing he is to herald to the people? We are told that months after our Civil War had ended a certain man went into a remote southern district and he found there that the negroes had never heard that they were actually free. What was he to do? Should he sit down and decant upon the value of freedom? Should he discuss with them some method by which they might gain liberty? What I suppose he did was to tell them they were free, the Emancipation Proclamation had been issued. It would be clear beside the point to enter into any argument. They were past that. In the light of such an incident, I suppose that the province of a preacher is to announce to men not that there may be a loop-hole of escape, a chance of salvation, but he says the proclamation of emancipation has been issued, he will tell them they are already saved if they accept it.

"I think it would be also a practical matter for us today in thinking upon this matter of preaching to add this, that it is something that is to be given by the living voice, or the living man. I have spoken about all those various ways of delivering truth that are adopted today and which prove it to be relied upon for effectiveness. But after all there is an element in some of these that is wanting. It has been said the pulpit has been transferred to the printed page, there is no need for men to go to church for they can read the sermon at home. How many people in this broad land remained at home Sunday morning because they remembered there was a sermonette in their Sunday paper?

"It is urged that 'people today receive their impressions, not through the ear but through the eye.' It is asserted the day of vocal triumphs is past and that the power of the tongue has been broken. It is true that to a greater degree than ever before people receive their impressions through the eye rather than the ear. We all read, printed pictures multiply on the pictures on the screen are innumerable. But is it true that the people do not care to hear speech and that this method of moving men is abandoned or likely to be in the near future?

"When our country entered the war it sent out innumerable speakers. It lined the walls with pictures. It used the press in every possible way. Then the government took a lesson from the church and in its hour of need, when it was summoning up its strength, it sent out an army of speakers, and it called into service all the pulpits of the land. No minister but was urged from Washington to speak. Do you remember the Victory Loan which so finely succeeded? Placards were everywhere, pictures in windows, in the papers; exhortations were on the machines, the buses. Wasn't that enough? Don't you recall the stands for speaking? And all this was in a day when he are told that vocables are discounted. High officers of the government were impressed in service, and a former president; commanders returned

WANTS REFUND IN FORD DEAL

Car Sold by Chambers Not All It Ought to Have Been, Says Martin in Action in County Court.

In county court this morning the trial of No. 12, William B. Martin and another against Adelbert H. Chambers and another was taken up for trial. Frank W. Brooks for plaintiffs; William D. Brainerd for defendants. The trial was taken up with eleven jurors. This is an action growing out of the purchase of a second-hand Ford car in August, 1921, by plaintiffs from defendants. Plaintiffs at the time conducted the Tannersville Times-Record and wanted an auto to carry them back and forth from Tannersville to Kingston. They paid one hundred dollars down and gave defendants $40 worth of advertising, also alleged they paid $28 repairs to the Ford, which failed to reach Tannersville on its first trip from Kingston to Tannersville and to pay the way back to Kingston of the representative of the defendants running the car after it broke down. The plaintiffs allege that their demand for the return of the $100 and for the advertising and expense incurred has not been met. They therefore ask judgment.

Defense is that the car after being in possession of plaintiffs broke down, that bearings were burned by reason of lack of oil, that because of defect made in repair of bearings at Tannersville plaintiffs and not defendants are to blame.

TAXIS MUST FILE BOND WITH STATE BY NEW LAW

Some Busses Must Also Take Out Insurance.

Because of the large number of inquiries regarding the new section of the highway law which requires the owners or operators of motor vehicles used to carry passengers for hire to file a bond or insurance policy for $2,500, the state insurance department and the attorney-general's office have prepared and issued a lengthy explanation.

The vehicles affected by the law are taxicabs, livery automobiles, jitneys, private school stages and busses, hotel stages or busses, busses operated by consent of a city but not operated under a franchise by a corporation subject to the provisions of the public service commission law, and motor vehicles accompanying the hearse and carrying mourners at a funeral. The operator of a motor hearse need not furnish bond or policy.

The state insurance department advises that persons or corporations who come under the act should write to John J. Lyons, secretary of state, from whom copies of the act can be obtained. The bond or policy furnished in accordance with the provisions of the law must be submitted to Walter W. Law Jr., president of the state tax commission, Albany.

Failure to have the bonds is punishable by a year in jail or a fine of $500 or both.

CONFERENCE HELD AT ZION CHURCH

Reports of Various Societies Grati- fying to Officials—Return of Pastor is Requested.

The fourth quarterly conference held at the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church on Monday evening was largely attended. The reports of the various auxiliaries was gratifying. The missionary society reported raising nearly $100 in less than two quarters, an activity never before shown. Mrs. S. J. Clark is president of the society. The Sunday school and Christian Endeavor both showed a substantial gain. The board of trustees reported raising $2,284.11 with an expenditure of $2,139, having a balance on hand of $95.11. The reports of the societies were exceptionally commendable.

The conference on a rising vote unanimously voted for the return of the pastor, the Rev. E. O. Clark, and the district superintendent, the Rev. Benjamin Judd. Mr. Clark is held in great esteem by his congregation and commands a strong place in the pulpit. It is hoped by his congregation that he will be returned and thus satisfy the wishes of his people among whom he has labored so successfully.

LILLIAN RUSSELL DEAD AT 61

Long Among Most Noted American Actresses. She Retained Large Share of Beauty to End—Charity One of Her Principal Traits.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Pittsburgh, June 6.—Mrs. Alexander P. Moore, better known to the American public as Lillian Russell, and for years one of the most noted figures of the stage, died early today from complications resulting from an injury received aboard a ship while she was returning to the United States from Europe recently.

Mrs. Moore had been ill about ten days and her condition late yesterday became very grave and eminent specialists were summoned for a council today but she died at 2:20 o'clock this morning.

No funeral arrangements have been announced.

For many years Lillian Russell was an American institution, the same as Mrs. Pat Campbell is today in England.

Sixty-one years ago she was born in Clinton, Iowa, and before she had passed her "pig tail days," she was seeing visions of stardom in the sentimental Italian operas of the day. Shaking Iowa dust off her little feet, she came to New York and studied with Leopold Damrosch. Then Tony Pastor, the father of the variety show, heard her sing, marvelled at her fresh beauty, and immediately offered her $50 a week to sing in his music hall.

Visions of grand opera faded as Nellie Leonard—her real name—stepped before the crude gas footlights of that day and made a hit in the music hall.

She then took the stage name by which she was known in succeeding years.

Those were the days of extravagant and sentimental French comedies with music, such as "Le Petit Duc," in which she revealed her charms to an admiring audience.

Through the years that followed, she succeeded greatly in both England and America. The harder she worked, the more beautiful she seemed to become. It is not a far fetched comparison to say that she was the Queen Victoria of the American theater—but a beautiful queen.

In her later years she starred in straight comedies and occasionally appeared in high class vaudeville.

She was married four times. She lived the principles in which she believed—temperance, joy, the exile of fear, and "the greatest of these is charity."

No harsh criticism of a fellow-being was ever known to pass her lips. In her last year she gave her life to the improvement of the conditions of the poor in her home city. Those who enjoyed her friendship said that she was earnest in that work; those whom she benefited swear "to so."

When last seen in public—after returning a few weeks ago from Europe, where she studied immigration problems at the request of the government—she was still beautiful and lovely.

JENKINS IDENTIFIES RAGLAN AS MAN WHO CUT HIM

Arrest Made for Brickyard Slashing Affray.

Sheriff Kolts and Undersheriff Tunis Haulenbeck went to East Kingston Monday afternoon, having been notified that the negro who stabbed another negro Sunday evening, and who had made a getaway, had returned and was at a shack on the Hendricks brickyard. John Jenkins, who was stabbed, and who is not the "Gypsy Kid," as was first reported, pointed out the negro—a six-footer who was in the shack as the one who did the cutting. Then Raglan was taken into custody and with Jacob Richardson, another negro who it is said knows about the affair brought to the court house by Sheriff Kolts and Undersheriff Haulenbeck. Jenkins, the victim, also came along and he was taken before District Attorney Traver who made out a complaint against Raglan for assault in the first degree, sworn to by Jenkins.

Later Raglan and Richardson were taken before Justice of the Peace Walter Webber at Flatbush town of Clatter where Jenkins said he wanted a lawyer and the hearing adjourned until 7:30 Tuesday evening.

Richardson and Jenkins were allowed to go to appear at the adjourned hearing and Raglan brought back to jail.

Wage Cut Announced For Rail Shop Crafts

Leaves Machinists' Hourly Rate at 70.3 Cents and Car Men's 64.4, With Greater Buying Power Than Before 1920 Raise, Say Railway and Public Groups of Board—$59,000, 000 Annual Saving Expected.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, June 6.—The crisis of a railway strike was brought appreciably nearer, it was generally believed today, by the announcement of the United States Railroad Labor Board of a reduction estimated at more than $59,000,000 annually in the wages of federated shopcrafts unions. Strike votes on the part of the unions are certain to follow unless railroad labor executes an "about face" and reverses its present announced attitude.

Today's decision of the board orders wage cuts effective July 1st, ranging from nothing for supervisory employees, to nine cents an hour for freight car men. The two largest divisions of the shopcrafts employees, the machinists, electricians, blacksmiths, boiler-makers, etc., and the helpers and apprentices, are reduced seven cents an hour.

In normal times the number of men affected by the decision would approximate 450,000. Latest available figures however, show that in February last, 290,182 men were employed by the railroads in the shopcrafts classification.

The decision of the board is concurred in by the members comprising the public and the railroad groups. The labor members, A. O. Wharton, Albert Phillips and W. L. McMinn, were unanimous in dissenting.

The minority report attacks the present decision on the ground that it cuts under the scale of a living wage for railway employees. The labor members charge that the decision is based upon cold statistics and that no consideration is given the "human needs of the employees affected."

"The most careful and comprehensive investigation of this subject," the minority opinion declares, "shows that wages which do not provide for the needs of a family of five, mean that 75 per cent of all the children in the families receiving this wage, will be inadequately provided for during at least five critical years of their lives. Permanent traces of this malnutrition will be left on the physique of the next generation."

The majority opinion points out that "after the reductions made under this decision, shop employees of railroads will still be receiving as a rule, a wage in excess of that paid to similar employees in other industries." It is contended in the majority opinion that the increasing purchasing power of the wages paid the shopcraft employees, offsets the decreased amount of wages so that the value of the wages is really greater.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

PATIENT PIGS

"Good-day, good-day, grunt, grunt," said Grandfather Porky Pig.
"How do you do, squeal, squeal," said Miss Ham.
"Good-day, grunt, grunt," said Sammy Sausage.
"How do you do, squeal, squeal, grunt, grunt," said Pinky Pig.
"Good-day to everyone," said Pinky's mother, "squeal, squeal, good-day."
"Hello, hello, squeal, squeal," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.
"Squeal, squeal," said Brother Bacon.
"How is everyone?"
"Grunt, grunt," said Sir Percival Pock.
"It's a fine day."
"True, true, squeal, squeal," said Master Pink Pig.
"We have talked enough," said Grandfather Porky. "We are all too polite. I thought perhaps that by being polite we would be rewarded and that food would be brought sooner."
"Just what I thought, grunt, grunt," said Miss Ham.
"Exactly the thought I had, grunt, grunt," said Sammy Sausage.
"My very thought, too, squeal, squeal," said Pinky Pig.
"I had the same one as well as the rest of you, grunt, grunt," said Pinky's mother.
"I thought surely if I was polite I'd get some food sooner," said Sir Benjamin Bacon, "and no food has come as yet, grunt, grunt."
"I will never be polite again," said Brother Bacon. "You were all being polite, and it didn't sound natural, and

"Suddenly Found Herself Alone."

I thought that it must mean something, so I was polite, too. I didn't want to miss anything. No, indeed, grunt, grunt."
"I thought the same as Brother Bacon," said Sir Percival Pock, "and I do have been fooled, grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal, I have been fooled."
"Yes, and I have, too, been fooled, squeal, squeal," said Master Pink Pig. "The trouble has been we've all been too patient. We've been waiting for our food and none has come. We've been much too patient."
"Of course," said Miss Ham, "we might just as well be patient. No food has come."
"Ah, Miss Ham, lots of creatures are impatient when they might just as well be patient, and when they get nothing by being impatient."
"We have been too patient. We have not acted like pigs. We have acted as though we were fine, sensible creatures with patience and good sense, and all sorts of silly things like that."
"However, I think it is interesting to think that we have been patient."
"I almost feel as though in all the city parks and in all the country squares there should be monuments put up, and upon the monuments should be inscribed:
"The pigs have been patient. The more fools they."
"Why, Porky," squealed Miss Ham, "they couldn't put that on a monument."
"Why not?" asked Porky. "Can't they put anything on a monument? One word would go as well as another. I should think they could put anything on a monument that they wanted to have there."
"I should think that."
"But, porky, your thoughts aren't the very greatest and most sensible thoughts in the world."
"No, indeed."
"And upon monuments there should always be noble words. Now they might put on the monument:
"This monument was erected in honor of the Pigs. They have been noble citizens, brave grunters and splendid eaters."
"I don't know whether that would just do or not, but that is the idea."
"And I think it is a good idea."
But Miss Ham suddenly found her self alone, for the food had been brought by the farmer and all had rushed to it.
She did the same now, and as she hurried over to the farmer she said to herself: "Patient Pigs is a phrase that sounds well, even though it hasn't much sense to it. Oh, well, let's not worry about a monument unless it could be a monument of food."

"Did you have a nice time?" asked his mother on his return.
"Not very," replied Ralph. "His mother kept hanging around all the time."

"A garden is a lovely thing, God will!
Bore plot,
Fringed pool,
Fenced knot,
The very school of peace; and yet the fool contends that God is not—
Not God in gardens! When the eye is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign:
The very sure God walks in mine."

Climbing Fish.
In his "Natural History of Ceylon," Sir J. Emerson Tennent states that on one occasion he saw hundreds of climbing fish crawling up the bank of a dried-up pool, diverging in every direction on reaching the top to a distance of 50 yards and still traveling onward. The supposition is that they travel by night or before sunrise. One peculiarity is the large size of the vertebral column, quite out of proportion to the rest of the body. In migrating they keep their gills expanded and moistened by a curious vessel above the gills that holds water. When the fish leaves the water it carries with it enough water to moisten its gills as often as necessary to sustain life. The eggs float loosely at the surface of the water and hatch in two or three days. The color of this fish is a light brassy olive, with eyes of orange, its length is up to seven inches.

YOUR HELP IS ESSENTIAL

Insurance is recognized as a great asset to automobile owners. The risk of driving a car without insurance protection is too great for the average car owner to assume. Yet insurance is not a magic wand nor an Aladdin's lamp; its cost and efficiency depend to a large degree on the cooperation of the people who buy it.

BRITISH HALT AT FREE STATE LINE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Belfast, June 6.—The British victory over the Irish Republicans was extended today when the Republicans retreated from a number of strategic points along the Ulster-Free State frontier.

The British are not pursuing the Republicans beyond the boundary. There has been desultory firing at some points, but up to noon no battles had been reported.

Society Notes

Vogt-Schatzel

A very pretty June wedding took place at noon today at St. Peter's Church when Miss Margaret M. Schatzel, daughter of Mrs. Caroline Schatzel of 34 South Clinton avenue, became the bride of Charles E. Vogt of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph D. Ostermann of St. Peter's Church. The attendants were Miss Susan M. Schatzel, a sister of the bride, and Walter P. Snyder. After the wedding ceremony a reception, attended by the immediate members of the family, was held at the home of the bride, after which Mr. and Mrs. Vogt left for an extended wedding trip to Canada and other northern points.

Plummer-Parish

The marriage of Miss Blanche Parish of Albany, daughter of the late Dr. Charles E. Parish of Maryland, N. Y., and the Rev. Cecil Heathcote Plummer, son of the late Lieut. Col. Heathcote Plummer of Salisbury, England, took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Luther Emerick on Partition street, Saugerties, at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. The ceremony which took place under an arch of roses was performed by the Rev. J. G. Lauderbaugh of Albany, assisted by the Rev. T. E. Richards of Saugerties. The bride wore a gown of white Canton crepe and carried white roses. Only the immediate relatives were present. Immediately following the ceremony a dinner was served at the Maxwell House. A coincidence of the happy event was that Monday was the 16th anniversary of the marriage of Dr. and Mrs. Luther Emerick, and the 16th anniversary of the marriage of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hebb, Mrs. Emerick and Mrs. Hebb being sisters of the bride, Mrs. Plummer. The bridal couple left for Lake Champlain and points north for a brief wedding trip. The guests from out of town were Dr. and Mrs. Lauderbaugh of Albany, Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Parish and daughters, Beatrice and Ruth, of Oneonta, and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hebb of Baltimore, Md.

Clemensen-Ten Eyck

Miss Helen Ten Eyck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ten Eyck of Albany, will be married to Arthur C. Clemensen of Richmond, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clemensen of Chicago, Ill., on Saturday evening, June 10, at 6 o'clock. The wedding will take place at the First Reformed Church of Albany and will be performed by the Rev. Dr. James S. Kittell of Jersey City, N. J., former pastor of the church. The Albany Knickerbocker Press of Sunday says Miss Ten Eyck has chosen her sister, Miss Clara Ten Eyck, as her maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Anne Clemensen of Chicago, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Helen Gross, Miss Ethel Rodgers and Miss Harriet Fort, all of Albany. Gerald Graham of Chicago will be best man. The ushers will be Wessels Ten Eyck of Kingston, cousin of the bride; Kenneth Wood of New York city, and Frederick Holcomb and Joseph Mahar, both of Albany. Margaret Clemensen, little sister of the groom, will be the flower girl. The bride will be given in marriage by her father. A reception at the home of the bride's parents will follow the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Ten Eyck will entertain at dinner on Friday night in honor of the bridal party. After a wedding trip, Mr. Clemensen and his bride will live in Richmond. Miss Ten Eyck's parents are both well known in this city and vicinity. Mr. Ten Eyck being a native of Hurley and Mrs. Ten Eyck being a daughter of Mrs. Sarah M. Burhans of Lake Katrine.

ALL-STARS LOSE CLOSE GAME AT MILTON

The Milton Baseball Team emerged triumphant over the Kingston All-Stars in a game of baseball played at the Milton grounds Sunday. The game was a close one as the teams were about evenly matched. The locals boys scored one run in the first inning which aroused much anxiety among the Milton boys, so they scored one in the second. A hard struggle ensued as both teams fought for the lead which the Milton team captured in the seventh inning. Tom Cullen was on the mound for the Kingston team and pitched a fine game having thirteen strike-outs to his credit. Dizel was on the receiving end. The Milton pitcher was in very good form also.
He had thirteen strike-outs. The teams were immediately re-matched to play another game on the Milton grounds July 4th.

The score by innings is as follows:
All-Stars 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—1
Milton 0 1 0 0 0 1 1—3 hall. The songs, jokes and dances were very good and highly appreci-a part to play and he played it well.

Dancing was enjoyed following the entertainment, the Imperial Orchestra supplying the music. Refreshments were served and were a happy addition to the program. The play will be repeated again this evening at St. Peter's School Hall.
